Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I do not want to pay more for my telephone service! The extra fees and charges already on there are already too much. The last thing the average people in this country need is more telephone fees. I urge you to reject a flat fee proposal that would change how contributions are made to the Universal Service Fund. I am concerned that this proposal could make my current service unaffordable.

Under the flat fee proposal you are considering, people who make few long distance calls would pay the same as people or businesses that make many calls. In other words as I understand it, low-volume and primarily residential customers would bear the same universal service fund burden as a high-volume residential or business customers. I make very few long distance calls, so a fee such as this would be very unfair to me and other like me!

I use my wireless phone for safety, security and convenience. I don't want to lose these benefits so that big businesses can pay less than their fair share. I urge you to reject the proposal to move the USF collection system to a flat-fee.

Keep the USF Fair!

Sincerely,
